EDINBURGH UNIVERSITY OPERA

Edinburgh University Opera is one of the most innovative music theatre groups in Scotland. Since its foundation in 1967, it has performed a wide range of musical drama ranging from early baroque pieces to newly commissioned works, with a special interest in rarely performed pieces. Recent productions include Handel's Athalia, Purcell's King Arthur and The Beggar's Opera. The company stages one large scale show per year in mid-February, with the possibility of a second, smaller scale production in the summer. For further details contact: Jenny Henderson, c/o Alison House

PURCELL AND HIS TIME

To mark the 300th anniversary of Henry Purcell's death the Faculty of Music presents three programmes of vocal and instrumental chamber music by him and some of his English antecedents and contemporaries, performed in St Cecilia's Hall with period instruments.

It is hoped that performers will include Alison Crum and the Rose Consort of Viols, Christopher Field (baroque violin), John Kitchen (chamber organ) and Michael Turnbull (harpsichord)
